21.

What does N and M stand for?

NOTE: 19 Clifton Terrace is Nelson House. The two lions in front link this house to the four lions which guard Nelson’s Column in Trafalgar Square. Horatio Nelson was a famous naval commander and a national hero, famous for his victories against the French in the Napoleonic wars. Nelson actually stayed here and Lady Hamilton gave a ball in his honour at the Royal Hotel in 1805 prior to the battle of Trafalgar in which Nelson lost his life.

Continue to No 14 Royal Terrace

22.

What is the English ‘listed building’ symbol on the house?

NOTE: The Terrace became Royal following the visit by Princess Caroline, wife of the Prince Regent, in 1803. Difficult access to the town discouraged it becoming more popular until the opening of the railway in 1856. With the coming of the railway people were able to come to the seaside from the city for day trips. Southend became popular with royalty and the wealthy after the publication of a book, written by a Doctor Richard Russell, extolling the virtues of sea bathing. There were Royal Baths situated on Pier Hill. In order for ladies to bathe in the sea, Southend employed ‘Dippers’ who helped the ladies to bathe once they had been wheeled to the sea in special bathing huts.

The Royal hotel stands at the corner of Royal Terrace and the High Street. Proceed towards the Palace Hotel.

NOTE: The Palace Hotel was built in 1901 and this 5* hotel was used as a military hospital during the Great War. Injured soldiers were brought by boat to the end of the pier.

Make your way down Pier Hill to the sea front area and walk along ‘The Golden Mile’ to nos. 10-12 Marine Parade – The Borough Hotel.

23.

When was the Borough Hotel built?

24.

How many bearded men’s faces are jutting out from the façade?
